Visit to Chief Agriculture Office, Kathua

The Institution's Innovation Council (IIC) of GDCW, Kathua organised an educational visit to the Chief Agriculture Office, Kathua under the theme "Apiculture as a Skill Development Programme." The programme was conducted with the objective of creating awareness among students about beekeeping as a sustainable livelihood option and promoting entrepreneurial skills through apiculture.

The resource person for the programme, Mr. Pankaj Jasrotia, Apiculture Development Assistant, Chief Agriculture Office, Kathua, delivered an insightful and informative session on the fundamentals of apiculture, its economic significance, and its growing potential as a self-employment opportunity. He explained the scientific methods of beekeeping, the importance of honey bees in crop pollination, the production and processing of honey, and the various value-added products that can be developed through apiculture.
